LAST EVENING.

Their Diversion From State to City Treasury.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., February 25, 1908.

Evening Star Bureau, 701 King street, Bell Telephone 106.

At the semi-monthly meeting of the city ouncil last evening two ordinances were assed which will have the effect of turning into the treasury of the city a considfines which formerly went into the treasury of the state. One was an ordinance prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors from 12 o'clock Saturday night until 4 o'clock the following Monday morning and the other prohibiting the keeping of a house of fil-fame. For the violation of the ordinance relating to saloons a fine of not less than $10 nor more than $500 was provided and for the violation of that relating to disreputable houses the punishment provided was a fine not to exceed $200, together with a term of one year in the city jail. Both were brought to the attention of the city council at its last regular meeting by a communication from Mayor Simpson. The original ordinance against the Sunday sale of liquor provided that the bar rooms be closed from miduight Schunday until the osed from midnight Saturday until the following Monday at sunrise. Upon mo-tion of Mr. Snowden the time for the reopening was changed until 4 o'clock. Here-tofore the cases coming under these two heads were tried under a state statute and the money collected in fines went into the treasury of the commonwealth.

An ordinance was presented by the committee on streets providing that where roadways have been reduced to thirty-two feet the property owners on such streets, where a general agreement is reached, can leave a ten-foot sidewalk next to the curb and park between that and their houses. The ordinance further stipulates that the prop-erty owners should erect an iron fence, not to exceed four feet in height, next to the parking. It was referred to the street committe. Should the ordinance be passed it will apply particularly to the two squares on North Alfred street between King and Hook and Ladder Company's Petition. A petition from the members of the Relief Hook and Ladder Company, praying for the erection of a new truck house, was received and referred to the committees on finance and public property. It was stated in the petition that the house now occupied in the petition that the house now occupied is inadequate for the purposes for which it is used. The request was indorsed in an accompanying letter from the board of fire wardens. A resolution, offered by Mr. McCuen, providing that the street committee take steps for the construction of a sewer on Washington street between Duke and Wilkes streets was referred to the street committee. The same action was taken on a resolution, also presented by Mr. McCuen, providing that the city engineer and the street committee be requested to ascerthe street committee be requested to ascer-tain the cost of a steam roller and stone crusher. The committee on public property recommended that the sum of $50 be appropriated for papering the meeting room of the Hydraulion engine house, and the report was adopted. After the transaction of a few more matters of an unimportant character council adjourned.

THE THRALL OF LEIF THE LUCKY A Daily Serial of Unusual Interest to

Be Published in The Star. Next Saturday The Evening Star will begin the publication of a daily serial story of exceptional attractiveness, entitled "The Thrall of Leif the Lucky." It is a thrilling tale of the Viking days, and carries the reader into Norway, Greenland and to the American shores touched by the Viking explorers, who set the first white foot upon this continent.

A young Englishman of noble birth, captured by the Danes, after a series of exciting adventures, becomes the thrall, or slave, of Leif, popularly known as the "Lucky," son of Eric the Red of Greenslave, of Leif, popularly known as the "Lucky." son of Eric the Red of Greenland. The struggle between the believers in Christianity, then just spreading its influence over northern Europe, and the Norse paganism, which retained its firm hold in Greenland under Eric, is stirringly depicted, many dramatic situations evolving out of the conflict of influences. A tender romance develops to fascinate the reader.

The author, Ottilie A. Liljencrantz, has woven into her novel many threads of strong human interest. The story is filled with color, action and atmosphere, and is interesting in every chapter. It is based upon authentic historical facts regarding the Norse discovery of America and has a distinct value in awakening interest in that somewhat neglected phase of the

JOKE ON A POLICEMAN.

But the Young Men Forfeited Collat-

Policeman H. C. O'Brien, who does duty in the vicinity of 11th and F streets north west, was the yietim of a practical joke about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon which caused pedestrians who saw the officer to laugh, but he failed to see where the joke came in, and with the assistance of Meunted Policeman McQuade placed three young men who are said to be students at the Georgetown University under arrest on a charge of disorderly conduct. The guardian of the peace was at his post The guardian of the peace was at his post of duty when he was approached by the young men, who engaged him in conversation. A short time after they left O'Brien noticed that pedestrians were looking in his direction, their faces wearing a smile. It did not take him long to find out that he was the cause of the fun; because he found a large sign attached to his back advertising a brand of suspenders which have in the Orient." By Hon. John W. Foster, ex-Secretary of State, Special Plenipotentiary to Great Britain, Germany, China and Japan.

'American Diplomacy

In this important work, just from the press, Mr. Foster shows the part which the United States has taken, and the position it now occupies, in respect to the political, commercial and race questions in the Orient.

Mr. Foster's earlier book, "A Century of American Diplomacy, owed its success not only to the authority which his intimate knowledge of our diplomatic history gave it, but also to his clear, concise and readable style, an excellence which equally marks this present work. 8 vo., cloth binding, 497 pages.
